Dear Parents/Guardians/Carers

What an exciting week it has been! We kicked off the week with some fantastic workshops run by Big Foot Arts to celebrate anti-bullying week. Our focus this week has been kindness in all aspects of school life; we have been thinking of many different ways to show kindness to others as well as ourselves. I have seen so many lovely examples of kindness; from taking care of someone who is hurt or lonely in the playground, to helping a teacher in need, to saying something lovely to make someone smile, to forgiving a friend who has made a mistake. As adults, we focussed on the quote: "You never know how much a little kindness can do. It's the small things that make the biggest difference."

Our parents evening were a great success; thank you all for attending and enabling us to share your children's learning. I know the children have been so excited to be able to show their achievements to you.

Reception travelled to the LEGO headquarters today as part of the Artburst project which is also launching the book and song at the Young V&A tonight. I am so excited to see the product of so many week's hard work!

Finally a reminder that children should only bring in school lip-balm or vaseline, we have had a huge amount of lip gloss coming in through the gates!

Have a wonderful weekend.
